FARMINGTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS ANNOUNCES THE APPOINTMENT OF PRINCIPAL OF NOAH WALLACE SCHOOL EFFECTIVE JULY 1, 2017

(For immediate release: Farmington Public Schools June 8, 2017)

Superintendent Kathleen C. Greider and the Farmington Board of Education are proud to announce the appointment of Dr. Carrie Wessman Huber to the position of Principal of Noah Wallace School effective July 1, 2017.

After a comprehensive national search, Dr. Huber was selected from a strong and experienced pool of candidates. In her current role as Principal of Redding Elementary School, Dr. Huber has supervised, evaluated and coached teachers in kindergarten through grade 4 including special area teachers. She has planned and facilitated professional development workshops, faculty meetings, instructional leadership team meetings and parent presentations to support District and School Improvement Plans. She has worked collaboratively with all stakeholders to develop a vision statement and to foster a climate of respect. Prior to her current position, Dr. Huber served as the Assistant Principal of Redding Elementary School for four years.

Superintendent Greider states, "Dr. Huber stood out as an exceptional candidate for Principal of Noah Wallace Elementary School from the beginning of the search process. Her deep commitment to the success of all students and her caring approach to school leadership align well to the Noah Wallace Elementary School's mission and goals. Dr. Huber is an innovative leader with significant experience and expertise as a school principal. We are so fortunate to welcome such a stellar leader to the Farmington Public Schools."

Board of Education Chair Christopher Fagan commented, "Dr. Huber is an excellent addition to the Noah Wallace school community and Farmington's leadership team. Dr. Huber is an educator committed to excellence in all aspects of her work. She is a caring, compassionate and an expert leader. We are thrilled she will be leading Noah Wallace Elementary School beginning July 1, 2017."

Upon her appointment, Dr. Huber commented, “I am honored and excited to begin my 18th year in education as the principal of Noah Wallace School. As a passionate educator, I look forward to building trusting relationships with the faculty, parents, and students at NWS while also working together to actualize the well-articulated vision of the Farmington Public Schools.”

Brief Bio:

Dr. Huber received her Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts in Elementary Education from the University of Connecticut and her Doctorate in Educational Leadership from Central Connecticut State University. Dr. Huber has received many honors throughout her academic and professional career. Recently she was selected as the 2016 Connecticut PTA Dawn Hochsprung Elementary School Principal of the Year Award.
